John Vickery writes.....

There have been clear signs over the last 8 weeks that confidence is slowly beginning to return to the property market. This has been borne out by our Jan/Feb sales performance, % up on the corresponding period last year. We have found that keenly priced homes have started to generate competition in the market place, with many attracting several offers from well qualified buyers.

For those people who have been thinking about moving, now is the time to act. A keen price will attract a buyer to your existing house, allowing you to have advantage of the narrowest differentials in property values for the last 6 years.

We look forward to hearing from you.

WHY LEAVE IT TO CHANCE ?

A large percentage of buyers moving to this area come from Middlesex. In order to increase the possibilities of finding purchasers for our clients homes, we have increased the circulation of the Property Directory by 20,000 to take in selected Middlesex areas.
